AI · HOMEWORK · A FIELD GUIDE

what actually counts as cheating?

(the honest version — made for teens, not for teachers.)

GREEN · AI AS TUTOR
you're good.

NO DISCLOSURE NEEDED.

1. "explain it like i'm 12."
2. "quiz me on this chapter."
3. "did i get this right?" — after you tried.
4. "give me 5 angles." — you still pick one.
5. "make the textbook make sense."

— note what you asked AI.

YELLOW · AI AS ASSISTANT fine, but...

USE + DISCLOSE TO TEACHER.

1. "fix my grammar, keep my voice."
2. "give me an outline." — then rewrite.
3. "translate my notes to english."
4. "make this sound less cringe."
5. "give me 3 facts." — then verify.

— attach the disclosure.

RED · AI AS AUTHOR
just no.

THIS IS CHEATING. FULL STOP.

1. "write a 500-word essay on ___." bro.
2. paste, submit, pray.
3. teacher asks — you can't explain it.
4. "solve this for me." brain = atrophy.
5. they said no. you did it anyway.

— ask for an extension.

the only rule that matters: IF YOU CAN'T EXPLAIN IT, YOU CAN'T SUBMIT IT.

— SAMPLE DISCLOSURE NOTE —

"On this assignment, I used ChatGPT to help me understand the concept of photosynthesis before I started writing. The analysis and writing here are my own. I verified facts against my Class 10 Biology textbook."

the tool writes one custom to YOUR actual assignment.
this is just a sample.

scan me

try it on your real homework →

aithinktank.space/tools/homework-zone

AI is a tutor. not a ghostwriter.

the sooner you treat it like one, the less you have to hide.